It will be seen by this statement shat the u ward movement, which became trominent with the opening of the month, continued to act throughout the week. To the fact that the price of silver has remained firm, with an upward tendency, is almost al- | Sep 3 together owing the Improvement in Sepio Total the cotton market. The glutting of the Sepi? Total first such of orders following the buoyancy of Liverpool, and a cessation of the raic, with a fine, sunny season following, has brought a quicting influence into our market, and for the last three days there has been a slackening in the amount of purchases, but the cot fidence of folders has sustained quotations, and on ordinary cotton, which continues in vigorous request, with an increasing searcity of supply, there has been a further advance. The change from drooping depression to buoyancy and higher prices has been a most fortunate one for our market. The plenty and cheappess of money had induced many speculators to invest in and hold cotton, so that the middle of Total 1,586,200 1,486,201 1,786,901 first such of orders following the buoyand hold cotton, so that the middle of July found us with a stock of 22,500 bales of cotton on hand, and it was the general of inion that we should have to carry 10,000 bales of sicck over to the next season. The last week ended with a stors of only 8500 bales; the sale of the rest has strengthened our money centers, so that our banks, instend of flading money scarcer as the first of September approached, as is the regular course of things, are actually considerably stronger in capital to day Total 3,061,459 2,525,514 2,085,985 3,321 614 2,001,185 F*bil 117,395 104,163 125,580 135 229 88,300 F*bil 109,988 91,637 123,046 133,00 74,019 Total 3,291,690 2,824,314 2,950,911 2,535,559 2,103,400 F*b25 111,062 78 232 102,978 111,871 78,200 Total 3,402,752 2,902,566 3,061 017 2,707 389 2,236,540 Meh3 88,349 76,510 98,633 89,777 49,155 Total 3,488,736 2,970,666 3,159,550 2,788,157 2,255,818 Meh 2,780 12,780 ward's Liverpool monthly circular for Jay, we copy the following: "The ra!p ice of si ver has affected Manchester mand for castern cloth, and checking

From that important authority, Smith & Edlying of Ludian exchange and of the very ben-fishally, bringing in a good dethe tendency to short time; spinners being quite out of cotton entered our market freely, and, with an active demand, prices both on the spot and to arrive advanced 1@1d per pound, bringing quotations rather above the opening prices of the month. The improvement s most marked in low American coston. Our spinners have been large users of it for some months, attracted by its comparative cheapness, and the necessity of reducing the cost of their production to the utmost, and now the stock is getting Bensib'y reduced, and holders are side to obtain a market advance, amounting to id per pound on the lowest point of the month, and to $1 on the lowest sales of the year. The elauchester market, during the greater part of July, presented a scene of intense depression. We have never known business there in a more deplorable state, the continuous fall in silver and eastern exchange completely paralyzed merchants, who were suffering ruinous losse, and could form no calculations about the future; t e production became almost unsalable at any price, and there seemed to be no remedy except prolonged and widespread short time. Prices at one time fell so low that 32. twi-t, of poor quality, was sold at 71, and goods correspondingly low; the oss on production was so severe that short time was adopted by many individual spinners and manufacturers, and numerous meetings were held to organize combined action; no movement of late years seemed so likely to succeed, of receipts at United States ports this until the improvement of silver and ex- | year, 673,058 bales. change brought r lief to the market.
